

live. happy. inspired

NOV
21

GIVING THANKS

RECIPES

Last weekend my friends and I hosted a friendsgiving. As you get older and move away from home, friends really do become your family. I have lived in SF for 8 years now and the Bay Area for 12 years. It is almost as much of my home as Seattle was. People here have seen me go through my career highs and lows, a few different apartments, dating (or lack thereof) and all of the ups and downs that go with life. As we sat around the table I really appreciated each and every person there and what we individually were thankful for that evening.

I tried my best to find the recipes for the meal that we cooked. If I couldn't find the exact recipe, I linked to one that is pretty darn close.

Wine - Generously gifted to us by Scott winery (It was the perfect pairing with the food)

Cheesy Hasselback Potatoes

Cornbread Stuffing

Radicchio Salad

Roasted Squash, Brussels Sprouts and Pomegranate Seeds

Roasted Chicken \(purchased from Whole Foods\)

Coconut Cream Pie

